DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 29 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is unclear if claim 29 is an article or method claim as claim 29 depends on claim 1 which is an article claim; claim 29 is drafted as if claim 1 is a method claim. It is unclear as to which class of inventions is being recited. Claim 29 has not been amended as stated in the April 2004 amendment.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-5 and 7-10, 20 and 22-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Johnston (2096968) in view of Wang (5922379). Johnston discloses an homogenous construction panel in figure V having upper and lower portions. The lower portion comprises or provides the appearance of a plurality of vertically extending member which are of an appropriate shape and size to provide the appearance of a shingle, shake or tile. The panels are shown to have uniform and non uniform widths and lengths; see figures 1-2 and figures 3-4 respectively.

The panel has two to seven vertically extending members.

The size of the panels has been considered a matter of choice depending on the size of the roof to be covered; one of ordinary skill in the art would have appreciated the proper size and would have selected that suitable to cover/form the roof.

The material of construction has been deemed a matter of choice. One of ordinary skill in the art would have appreciated all of the materials available for use and would have selected any one which fulfilled the intended purpose of his panel. Nevertheless, Wang teaches a thermoplastic material having a combination of a natural plant fiber and synthetic polymer; column 1, lines 40-47. The fiber is selected from wood and other materials; see claim 38.

The density of the materials has been considered a matter of choice which is made according to the intended function of the device. Because the recited materials are shown to be disclosed by the prior art and the weight compositions close to those of the recited compositions, the construction panel of Johnston made of the material of Wang would also have a impact rating of class 3 or 4 as recited in claim 23 and class a/b/c fire classification as in claim 24.

The particular composition or proportion by weight of each material has been further considered a matter of choice; one of ordinary skill in the art would have appreciated the choice and would have selected the proportion according to the intended purpose and function of the device.

The plurality of members are of non-uniform widths and lengths and lower edges. The lower portion of the panel comprises a textured surface. The textured surface may replicate wood, clay, ceramic, slate tile and combinations thereof; see column 1, the first 2 paragraphs. The fiber is of a mineral and hence of a natural plant.

Claim 29; As far as understood it is clear that claim 1 is an article claim but unclear as to what class of invention is being recited with claim 29. Hence claim 29 is treated as an article claim. The examiner has considered only the article limitations in the claim. After an amendment, and it is clear that claim 29 is a method claim the claims will be subject to a restriction requirement Claim 21 is allowable over the prior art of record.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 31 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed April 19 ,2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues claim 29 should be allowable as it depends on an allowable claim. Claim 29 does not depend on an allowable claim; claim 29 depends on claim 1 which is rejected

Applicant argues that the prior art does not provide a prima facie case of obviousness. The claimed limitations shown by Johnston and Wang have been clearly shown. Obviousness rational has been given for limitations that concern size, shape and measurements. Allowability is not granted because a thermoplastic material may come in a different forms while other limitations are met. Applicant argues that the prior art does not disclose of a synthetic polymer. In column 1, lines 40-47, Wang discloses that natural and synthetic polymers are known. It is obvious that the function of the polymers are known and the use of such polymers are provided accordingly. See column 1, line 50-column 20 which discuss the function of both natural and synthetic polymers. Their interchangeable use is even discussed. Applicant's whole argument is base mostly on how the prior art fails to disclose this synthetic polymer and how such is not known. See patent 4592795.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
